Green Audit:

Why To Conduct Green Audit?

1. To ensure development along with safeguarding the environment
2. To reduce energy consumption to foster environmental upgradation
3. To ensure compliance with legislations
4. To physically ensure installation of devices that reduces pollution & authentication of such devices by competent authority.
5. To ensure optimum utilization of resources
6. To ensure whether provisions are made for liabilities arising out of unintentional pollution related damages
7. To ensure that due precautions has been taken by the organization to protect employee health & hygiene.
8. To suggest improvements in the overall system to promote safe & clean environment.

Scope of Green Audit:

Green audit serves as a means to identify opportunities to sustainable development practices, enhance environmental quality, improve health, hygiene and safety, reduce liabilities and save money and achieve values of virtue. Green audits can be a highly valuable tool for college in a wide range of ways to improve their environmental and economic performance and reputation -- while reducing wastages and operating costs. Once a baseline data is prepared after the auditing process, the data can serve as a point of departure for further action in campus greening. It will also help the college to compare its programmes and activities with other peer institutions, identify areas for improvement and prioritize the implementation of future projects. The data will also provide a basis for calculating the economic benefits of resource conservation projects by establishing the current rates of resource use and their associated costs.

Environmental Audit

Scope of Environmental Audit:

Environmental auditing is essentially an environmental management tool for measuring the effects of certain activities on the environment against set criteria or standards. Depending on the types of standards and the focus of the audit, there are different types of environmental audit. Organizations of all kinds now recognize the importance of environmental matters and accept that their environmental performance will be scrutinized by a wide range of interested parties. Environmental auditing is used to

- investigate
- understand
- identify various environmental issues in the campus.

These are used to help improve existing human activities, with the aim of reducing the adverse effects of these activities on the environment. An environmental auditor will study an organization's environmental effects in a systematic and documented manner and will produce an environmental audit report.
